

Journal of the American Musicological Society

VOLUME 65 • NUMBER 1 • SPRING 2012

Editorial	1
DENISE VON GLAHN
Articles
Who Was “Prioris”? A Royal Composer Recovered	5
THEODOR DUMITRESCU
“Don’t Sing It on a Feast Day”: The Reception and Performance of Western Sacred Music in Soviet Russia, 1917–1953	67
PAULINE FAIRCLOUGH
Sam Cooke as Pop Album Artist—A Reinvention in Three Songs	113
MARK BURFORD
Telos and Temporality: Phenomenology and the Experience of Time in Lewin’s Study of Perception	179
MARYAM A. MOSHAVER
Colloquy: Vladimir Jankélévitch’s Philosophy of Music	215
MICHAEL GALLOPE and BRIAN KANE, Convenors
Introduction	215
BRIAN KANE
Talking and Listening with Jankélévitch	218
STEVEN RINGS
Ineffable Immersion: Contextualizing the Call for Silence	223
JAMES HEPOKOSKI
Can We Say What We Hear?—Jankélévitch and the Bergsonian Ineffable	231
JUDY LOCHHEAD
Jankélévitch’s Fidelity to Inconsistency	235
MICHAEL GALLOPE

Jankélévitch and the Dilemma of Decadence	241
MICHAEL J. PURI
Where Jankélévitch Cannot Speak	247
JAMES R. CURRIE
Jankélévitch: Selected Writings on Music and Aesthetics	251
Other Works Cited	253
Reviews
Francesca Caccini at the Medici Court: Music and the Circulation of Power , by Suzanne G. Cusick	257
IAIN FENLON
Russian Music and Nationalism: From Glinka to Stalin , by Marina Frolova-Walker	266
SIMON MORRISON
Stravinsky's "Pulcinella": A Facsimile of the Sources and Sketches , edited by Maureen A. Carr; and Nijinsky's Bloomsbury Ballet: Reconstruction of the Dance and Design of "Jeux," by Millicent Hodson	272
SAMUEL N. DORF
West Side Story: Cultural Perspectives on an American Musical , by Elizabeth Wells; and Leonard Bernstein: "West Side Story," by Nigel Simeone	285
JIM LOVENSHEIMER
Twelve-Tone Music in America , by Joseph N. Straus	291
MARTIN BRODY
Contributors to This Issue	298
Publications Received	301
Directions to Contributors	308